Verse 1:

The powers and the principalities hold sway
They seem to be the only ones who get their day.
But we who struggle and strain against the bonds,
We know the night is darkest before dawn.

Chorus:

Oh we'll all stand together
On the banks of that river
Where the waters of life flow endless and free.
Yes, we'll all stand together
On the banks of that river
In a world recreated, shining bright as can be.

Verse 2:

Blessed be the hungry, their hunger shall be fed.
Blessed be those thirsting for righteousness instead.
Blessed be the mourners, the poor and humble too,
Blessed be her children when God makes this world new.

Verse 3:

The Spirit leads us, we do not walk alone.
And on the journey, God's love will be our home.
When we are weary and when the road grows long,
Christ walks beside us, reminds us of our song:
